Bill,

A thought occurred to me while reviewing the data for submission….why is it that the survey asks for the transfer facility for 3B (Schedules) but only asks for a lump sum for Actuals? After all, Balancing Authorities have at their disposal (for NERC reporting purposes) the metered data for each of the tie lines. You can't necessarily designate the transfer facility for a transaction schedule (as we know with the NY>Ontario interface) but you can get a clear picture of what is actually flowing over each of the tie lines to that Balancing Authority. I'm just curious as to the level of detail being given to schedules but not actuals.

Regards,
Shellie

They are merely a double check to make sure that the breakout for the two transfer facilities trace back to the original totals entered in the original report submission.

Thanks for this. What are the three numbers in the last column?

Hi Bill,

As per our conversation last week, we were able to modify our reports slightly in order to provide the transfer facility information for import and export transactions between NY and HQ (Schedule 3B). This information will be entered accordingly in the upcoming Q3 and Q4 2014 campaigns. The information pertaining to the Q2 2014 Schedule 3 values is detailed below.

Please feel free to contact me with any further questions.

William,

With regard to the message below concerning EIA-111 for Q2 2014, I'm unclear as to where we, as a Balancing Authority, would locate the transmitting utility reported on an E-tag because for each transaction the tag contains the Sending Control Area_the Purchasing/Selling Entity scheduling the transaction_Receiving Control Area. I do not see any such reference to the transmitting utility. When transactions are scheduled through NY, it's done via the reference bus and for HQ, there are two and Ontario has all transactions scheduled through one bus. I have no way of knowing, based on the E-tag, which utility is being used for the scheduling of tags through the OH bus.

Please advise as this is delaying our reporting.

Regards,

Shellie

Michelle McLaughlin:

We noticed that you did not report transfer facility(ies) on Schedule 3B. This is understandable because your source for this schedule, e-tags, does not provide the presidential permit number for implemented interchange that crosses U.S. international borders. Below you will find a table that should allow you to match the transmitting utility reported on an e-tag to the transfer facility(ies) designation to use in reporting on schedule 3B. If you have any questions about this, please contact Bill Booth at William.booth@eia.gov or (202) 586-5611.

Foreign BA	Owner/PP Holder	Location	Voltage	Presidential Permit #	Transfer Facility
