General Comment

To Whom It May Concern:

In reference to Veterans Application for Increased Compensation Based on Unemployability, I believe that a person's private information is just that, their private information. The only people who should be able to share their information with anyone, is them. Obtaining approval for such, is a necessity in order to not be in violation of a person's basic human rights. The only way to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information being collected is to get permission from the person the information is being collected about ahead of time.

Thank you for your time.
