General Comment

- The estimated time to complete the collection, "estimated to average 1 hour per response", appears to be inadequate.
- The data collection encompasses the Administrative Review almost in entirety, only excluding the individual form questions, making it difficult to understand how the data collection will be utilized. Is the intent of the data collection to verify the number of Review's completed or the primary areas of issues?

- What edit checks are expected to be performed at the national level? States should be provided the edit checks that are currently anticipated. Not being provided these upfront as states are preparing the changes to their electronic systems to support this collection causes states to have resource constraints at a staffing level and at fiscal level in having to pay for changes multiple times.
- We believe focusing on the sources of Fiscal Action and the Technical Assistance provided to sponsors would be a more accurate depiction of the health of the Administrative Review.
