i do not think there is sufficient follow up on reports given to this agency on harm and death caused by products in the u.s. i think that this agency protects manufacturers so that consumers of these products suffer grievously because this agency fails to act on information obtained.

i think all reports of problems with products should be put on line for everyone to view. i think we need public awareness because the actions of this agency allow more and more people to be harmed after the first reports come in of suffering from manufactured products.

i think this agency is doing too little. it seems to work for manufacturers, and not for consumers.

collecting the information is ok., its that you DO NOTHING WITH IT THAT IS THE PROBLEM.
