The only reason I feel comfortable working with SCORE and the SBDC is the fact that my information is protected and stays local. No one in the swamp needs access to any information about my company, and I would be glad to let my Senators know about SBA's attempt to make the registration process even more intrusive and burdensome. I don't need to be cross-sold on SBA products or programs... I have a trusted local team that lets me know about the best options for my company. Also, why is there a DUNS number field at the top? Hasn't the USG already decided to move to UEI? For an administration that touted its ability to reduce burdens on small businesses, this form looks like a step in the wrong direction.
