Isn't the SBA supposed to protect client privacy? I was under the impression privacy here with these advisors is paramount. If anyone is asked to check anything off, it needs to be very clear that their info may be shared.

I don't understand the wording about surveys. If I agree, am I signing up to participate in surveys? How often?

What is the wording about 'other services?' Seems to me that asking a small business for other services is just weird.

Overall, I really enjoy working with my SBDC. I don't want to be solicited because I work with them, and I don't want to feel like there is something more involved, rather than just a great service offered by the SBA.
