I vehemently object to the proposed change to the client privacy protections of the Small Business Act that has kept SBDC Client data confidential.

This information collection is unnecessary. SBA has no need for personal client information. Client information is not needed to analyze or indicate the performance of anything or anyone.

What purpose is served by this information being shared? Why is personal business information needed? Citizens and entrepreneurs have the right to privacy.

Clients have every right to have their information kept private. They do not sign up with the SBDC to be solicited for other services.

It is extraordinarily important that SBDC client data remain confidential. Do Not Make This Change.

Sincerely,
Sandra K Markus
SBDC Client and Advisor
