The language in the proposal is ambiguous. It is not clear that I can receive services if I choose "No" or choose not to respond. Also, it's not clear how the SBA will protect my information. What does "to the extent permitted by law" mean? The law seems very clear in the Small Business Act: "the SBDC is prohibited from sharing client information". This appears to be an attempt at circumventing, or at least weakening the law with no clear explanation of what problem this proposal is solving from the perspective of the people the SBDC and SBA are meant to serve.
