On the first set of questions on the survey there are questions about what types of devices individuals in household have and who has them in household. I think it would also be important to know how many of these devices that each individual has. How many tablets, smart phones, computers etc that each individual has?

There is also a question about the quality of the device an individual has. I think it would also be valuable to know if the individual keeps the software updated on the device and if not why? Do they know how to update applications (apps) or the operating system? This would give a good insight into digital literacy.
