General Comment

I do not care for the SNAP program. It is very difficult to use and errors are being made by the employees. I am glad I am no longer eligible, it was more work than it was worth and I have a friend who ran into these problems with contacting and keeping information correct. If a person is low income, the government should not be skimming money for food which is a necessity especially for people with pre-existing health conditions that require different food options than those at food pantries
