General Comment

I currently receive SSDI and have for 10 years. Before my disability, I worked filling out forms for government contractors and for government work. I have always been very comfortable filling out forms. It still takes me about 6-7 hours to fill out continuing disability review forms. And I am FAST at it. This does not include time necessary to gather and review documentation. My friend who was on SSDI and SSI lost their SSI because they could not work through the effort necessary to complete their disability review. The form is terrible and the process is horrible.
