General Comment

I am a person with multiple disabilities. Fulfilling CDR is one of my worst dreads.

Not only does SSA refuse to provide alternative format for filling it out on the computer to make the task manageable, but if you accommodate yourself by scanning and typing the answers, it is treated as if you didn't submit it at all.

It can also take time for people to be able to provide concise answers on how their disability has deteriorated within the window of time that interests you.

It takes me over an hour just to scan and read it. Then I have to find a trustworthy person to fill it out. I deserve to be able to fill this out independently. Interestingly

I can't get SSA to stop sending my annual CODA and other print materials on CD now that I use my social security, but when I need accommodations you won't do it. You are the only agency that discriminates against the very people you need to be helping.
