General Comment

I'd just like to tell you that I am a disabled woman in her 40s with a neurological disease and it took me much longer than an hour to fill out the required CDR forms. I was subjected to a review beginning before the pandemic began, and it was put on hold for a long time due to the healthcare crisis. It was resolved this summer. I am, and was deemed by your administration, still disabled, that won't change. What should change, however, is putting people through unnecessary mental anguish with the amount of work required to prove to you we are indeed still worthy of help. An hour is insufficient time to defend ones very life. That being said, thank you with all of my heart and soul for keeping us alive. Thank you, please stay safe.
