

Author Full Name : Renee SchultzReceived Date : 11/08/2022 02:26 PMComments Received :

The NSLDS has become extremely burdensome for schools and third party services when it comes to submitting ERRs. This information is already in COD- why should it be resubmitted in the context of an ERR? It would make sense if only changes needed to be submitted and not confirmation of data already submitted .

The ERR process has failed since August and data can not be uploaded even now in November.

If the only thing that has to be submitted are changes, that would alleviate some of the workload in an already overwhelming environment.

NSLDS also has a very frustrating requirement of each person for each school having to have a separate TG number. What tends to happen is that when a third party servicer signs an employee up, somehow that employee will get access to COD but not NSLDS. The paperwork is overwhelming- it's a complete mess. CPS/SAIG does the best they can to manage the overwhelming requirements for NSLDS. We've gotten over the lenders/guarantors using NSLDS for marketing- let's clean up the whole access process please!