General Comment

children should be provided for by their parents. if they are not being provided for by their parents, then there should be an investigation of the parent to see why that parent is not working and providing for that child. i am not in favor of taxpayer being bankrupted so that parents can spew out children all over in great numbers and that somebody else should have to pay for them. that is wrong. it encourages bad country and bad populations of people. responsibility of citizens needs to be shown constantly. as to elderly and disabled, they should work if they are able. if they cannot then after an investigation to see why not then benefits should be payable.
