Self driving trucks are very unsafe for the road. It is not a good idea to put driverless vehicles on the road. A truckers job is more complex than just going in a straight line and switching lanes they also have to deal w/ going down highways that involves construction workers, deal w/ sometimes harsh weather conditions, and make sure to not hit any cars or signs going through tight city roads. The job requires more than what a robot can offer and these self driving companies only care about meeting a deadline they aren't concerned about the safety of the average motor vehicle driver.
