Hello,

We would like to state that as Data Validators we are against moving the Date Validation completion deadline from June 30th to June 15th. Almost every year the Data Validation training and final documents are released later and later. This makes it impossible to get prepared timely. The MTMP data is not released until May and this year an issue with the GenTran data caused the data to not be re-released until the end of May. This means we as the data validators were unable to start the MTMP review until June. The change in deadline would absolutely put unnecessary stress on us and plans when none of our workloads have been reduced by these changes – so 0% workload change with a 15% (proposed) reduction in time feels unacceptable.

Thank you.
