General Comment

Please get rid of the unknown category. The rules currently allow it, but there is no reason to keep it. You're telling me that Cargill or ADM sells corn to some country and they have no idea who it is? It doesn't make any common sense.

Also, when you failed in the first attempt to change the system, you reported the quantities in different units. you also changed the order of the columns so I had to do massive restructuring of our computer system to make it work. only for it to fail and have to change it back again. give everyone a heads up so it isnt a massive time waste to reconfigure user systems
