General Comment

I think the site is ok. I am surprised at the time process. I expected things to get easier with the technology vs harder.

The recording process seems more difficult than the old system, and the shipments against the contracts is doable but not user friendly. if you don't process/upload the contract for an overfill first, your application of shipment will receive errors. On the old system it was a one step process.

It is too bad that you can't take the old system layout (user friendly for the exporters) and update it with drill down csv files. IE: if someone enters a $$ amount in a box, it would auto pop-up a blank csv to fill in and save with the details.
