There are two areas we think are especially important that your current draft does not yet emphasize:

1. We must ensure that data on supply includes the needs of families with school-age children and that reports on child care deserts include the lack of available slots for children ages 5-13
2. We must require that states have an explicit space to discuss investments in school-age quality work with their state quality set aside dollars. i.e. "What investments are the state currently making or do you plan to make in school-age quality supports?"
