Other than an invasion of privacy, I don't earn a fraction of the amount to even be suspected of tax dodging or whatever the FBAR is for. This was the first year I've had enough money to file this form. The information requested on the form isn't even enough to find my bank account. No other country has to go through this stressful task, it's disgusting that the US punishes it's non resident citizens with these forms and filing taxes. My future is stunted because of this and it makes me consider every year the benefit of getting rid of my US citizenship although I still have family back there. You are punishing us lower and middle class folk for things that have nothing to do with us.
