just leave us alone.

we dont live in the US, we have never lived there. We, Americans born and living abroad, have enough with the bureaucracy of our home countries to spend time filing in stupid US forms.

No other country asks their non-resident citizens to do things like this. None.

Plus you assume we speak English and we are aware of US laws, which is a stupid assumption. Most Americans have german ancestry. Do you speak German? Do you know anything about German bank account reporting requirements?
