I am the CFO of an Australian group of companies with 90+ employees and making a direct investment into the US economy via a US subsidiary with employees in New York, Boston amongst other locations.

Thanks to US tax legislation, and the compliance burden it imposes, I have not been able to be in control of the company's bank accounts and as the company has grown, I have sought to have my position modified with a lesser title and a non-US citizen take over these duties.

Extra territorial taxation costs Americans overseas their jobs.
