Since I married a Dutchman in 1966, I have lived in The Netherlands. I worked here and am now retired. I receive a Dutch pension and Dutch Social Security. I kept my American nationality which is handy when I go to the States to visit my brother and sister.

My husband and I have several bank accounts as he had a very good job and earned a good salary. I only worked 11 years so I have a small pension and some Social Security.

We have no investments, stocks and bonds or other type of income than pension and social security.

I think it is not fair that we have to report our savings to the American government since we have nothing to do with the United States except for an occasional visit.

Sincerely,
Jane Kottke de Vries
