I am a dual Canadian/US citizen, having previously lived in the US for 30 years in CA and OR now remarried and currently living in Canada for the past 18 years.

I feel that my financial arrangements ie the number of bank accounts and balances in said accounts should be considered legally personal and private. I pay my taxes based upon the treaty between our countries legally each year, and I feel that such information should be enough to satisfy the US Treasury.

The Treasury must be privy to much, if not everything about my main bank account to direct deposit my monthly social security as evidenced by the Federal Reserve ID.

I am a proud US AND Canadian citizen and resent being treated as if I had a criminal record just because I relocated.
