As an 82 year old dual citizen who is also a caregiver to my husband I find doing the FBAR a complicated & onerous task as is the whole need to file U.S. tax in general. I have to rely on an accountant who charges me $750+ every year to complete my U.S. tax return.

I never owe the U.S. any money so the whole process seems so redundant.

Americans living abroad should not have to face filing taxes in two countries.....I file my Canadian taxes faithfully every year as well.

The U.S. and only one other country (3rd world) has this policy in place. It's absurd.

We are not wealthy people...please do not penalize Americans Living Abroad with requiring them to file taxes in the country they left behind.
