Quite a few post-master's certificates are considered to be Gainful Employment programs since they are non-degree seeking. However, they don't lead to certifications regulated by states or others who may have certain credit hour limitations (e.g., MBA certificates and post-MSN FNP certificates). Are these on-ground, non-degree gainful employment certificate programs subject to credit hour limits found in 34 CFR 668.14(b)(26)? Any guidance on how to report these programs is appreciated.
