

Author Full Name : Jonas LambReceived Date : 06/12/2024 01:17 PMComments Received :

The Academic Libraries data set is a highly valuable tool used by higher education institutions to assess our library services as part of accreditation, program reviews and compared to our peer institutions. While many state libraries in cooperation with the IMLS maintain longitudinal data sets related to public libraries, academic libraries are not included in this data. Therefor the Academic Library Survey (NCES>IPEDS) is crucial to our work.