I am a director of a small academic library at an underfunded private college. We need the IPEDS survey to retain the section on our libraries. College administrators use these data to make decisions about staffing and funding of materials. They understand the importance of IPEDS to postsecondary education where they do not understand or value library specific data surveys done by state and national library organizations. ACRL Benchmark is not free of charge and takes more effort to complete than the IPEDS survey. IPEDS provides a service to libraries in all types of institutions. Please retain the library section.
