

Author Full Name : Amy Johnson

Received Date : 06/12/2024 05:07 PM

Comments Received :

I oppose the plan to eliminate the Academic Libraries survey. I earned a PhD from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 2010 and naturally the University's libraries (as well as other academic libraries) were essential to that work.

Particularly given the current culture war against librarians and libraries, the unique longitudinal data that the Academic Libraries survey provides is crucial information about changes and trends in college and university libraries.

I urge you not to eliminate this much-needed collection of data.