I ask that the Academic Library Survey be kept with IPEDS. This is the only free resource for this information and there are a multitude of libraries that depend on this freely available resource. The data is also more in depth than elsewhere and is vital for libraries in multiple ways including planning for services, future changes, collection size, and more. If this change is meant to help librarians, there are a great many librarians who need this data resource! The "cost" of filling out the data is minimal compared to the cost it will be for libraries if they no longer have access to this resource.
