Importance: Normal
Sensitivity: None

Thank you for your comments and general support for removing the standard metrics and providing narrative options to MTW PHAs. We will continue to work with the MTW Collaborative in determining alternative outcome measures that can be meaningful while minimizing burden. Please see the response below to some specific comments, and please look out for the 30 day PRA Notice in the coming weeks which will have some additional updates, some based on public comments we have received:

- Comment: KCHA also endorses the comments submitted by the Moving to Work Collaborative, and we wish to specifically support and reiterate their concerns regarding the proposed changes to the Certifications of Compliance. The Certification of Compliance is legally binding and false statements are subject to criminal and/or civil penalties. Given the variance in AFFH actions taken by jurisdictions around the country, and the likelihood that reasonable individuals could disagree as to whether a particular action is in compliance with an AFFH goal, we strongly urge HUD to make changes to the proposed language in section 6 and 7 of the proposed Certifications of Compliance.

Response: Thank you for your comment. This issue has been flagged to various HUD offices and is still under review internally. This will likely not be resolved prior to the publication of the upcoming 30 day PRA Notice. We will inform you when we have updates to provide and it will be before any final publication.
