

PUBLIC SUBMISSION

As of: 6/24/24, 8:45 AM
Received: June 10, 2024
Status: Non_Public
Tracking No. lx9-93as-pp21
Comments Due: June 10, 2024
Submission Type: Web

Docket: NASS-2024-0009
Mink Survey ICR (0535-0212)

Comment On: NASS-2024-0009-0002
Agency Information Collection Activities; Proposals, Submissions, and Approvals

Document: NASS-2024-0009-DRAFT-0001
Comment on FR Doc # 2024-07690

Submitter Information

Organization: WhoPoo App

General Comment

No American is permitted to buy Chinese farmland. As such, please ban all foreign ownership of farmland in the United States. China Caught Buying Vast Amounts of U.S. Farmland: New Details Revealed About How Communist Adversary Has Bought 347,000 Acres. China does not grow helpful crops with little to no pesticide. Instead, they grow acres of marijuana which has shown to bring about psychosis and schizophrenia. The U.S. military is not oblivious to the threat, and Air Force Major Jeremy Fox made this clear when he circulated a memorandum in 2022.

His main fear was that drone signals to and from the bases would be intercepted.

He said: "Some of the most sensitive elements of Grand Forks exist with the digital uplinks and downlinks inherent with unmanned air systems and their interaction with space-based assets," Fox wrote and warned that the farm "would present a costly national security risk causing grave damage to United States' strategic advantages," via CBS News.

Fufeng's COO for its US holdings, Eric Chutorash, dismissed these concerns saying "I can't imagine anyone that we hire that's going to even do that." But does the NASS have access and background checks to Chinese farmland workers? Nope. So it's completely reasonable to believe Chinese farm workers pose a national security threat not only to nearby bases, but to towns and intellectual property / trade secrets of machinery and the like in such towns.