I still stand by my original thoughts on seat belts. It's my choice to wear it or not. Laws are intended to keep you from infringing on other people's rights, not just to pass laws companies lobby for ( insurance companies ). I'm responsible for my choices pertaining to my health and safety. It's a slippery slope. For instance New York tells you what size cup you can get your drink in because they know best. Stop with the controlling of every aspect of my life.
