

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 09/07/2024 08:49 PMComments Received :

I really don't think you should have any requirements for people to get help with food. We are starving and with cost of food going up makes it worse for us to feed our family. Making adults get a job is I be able to get food stamps snap is really crazy. I work full time but let me tell ya it is not enough to feed my family and I think it's a disgrace how adults and children are going hungry. Cause a you make them get a job and B if they get a job then we are to rich for help so again we are in the same boat that we can not afford for for our family. And I know this don't go with comment it I do think the threshold should be raised so more families or single people can qualify for snap benefits or even Medicaid. Maybe the president and Vice President and all the people who work for the government or state that make the rules let them live with our pay check and see if you guys can survive no more free rides for higher up that have the day so no medical no nothing. And when they retire they should have to apply for social security like the rest of the world and Medicare and or medicade or let's see pay for your insurance.