

Author Full Name : Venus SavageReceived Date : 01/11/2025 09:28 AMComments Received :

Restrictions on how chronic pain patients are treated, have to end. Doctors are afraid to prescribe enough for patients to stay functional. Many doctors will not prescribe at all anymore. When there are centuries of proof that opiates are very safe & effective for chronic pain patients.

No one should be forced off their needed medications or not make drastic cutbacks that can be dangerous to patients physical & mental well being. Many complications like high blood pressure, heart attacks, depression, suicidal ideations & attempts and more come from forced tapering or stopping of critical pain medicines. Keep the government out of the doctor patient relationship when it comes to helping patients who have dire health issues and need access to adequate pain relief.