As a cisgender woman, I know that transgender people just want to live their lives and are not out to harm people. Unlike the ones wanting to enforce these kinds of restrictions, which serve no benefit other than harming people. Transgender people aren't the threat, they aren't the predators - if we wanted to stop the vast majority of violence, predators, rape, shootings, etc... well cisgender men are the problem, to be honest. But even so, I'd still want them to be able to have identification that reflects their reality.
