I do not believe that it is constitutionally sound or in the interest of the American people to repeal formally granted abilities to change sex on a passport or revising previously changed sex on documents. This year's changes to the passport application process, which were pushed through without soliciting public comment, don't benefit me or anyone I know as a voting member of the American public. The additional steps of 'gender verification' and soliciting original birth certificates create needless work for federal employees and waste manpower/salary by complicating the process on top of the burden of extra wait time on people applying.
