This order is based on a false assertion that there are only two biological sexes, when in fact there are many. Basing policy around incorrect information is a surefire way to cause unnecessary confusion for American citizens and foreign custom officials.

The ability to update our passports to display the correct information--including name and gender markers--is an important freedom provided to Americans of all backgrounds, including transgender Americans. To fall back on outdated sex markers that do not accurately reflect reality is to inhibit the freedoms and liberties afforded to transgender Americans as enshrined in the Constitution of the United States. This change in passport policy is simply discriminatory and does not protect women in any real way. Instead, it constitutes an illegal, anti-American, and anti-Constitutional attack against a vulnerable portion of our population.
