

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 02/19/2025 09:15 PMComments Received :

I do not think passports need a gender or sex marker. It is evident from the passport photo whether a person matches the document. Having a gender/sex marker is a relatively new thing. I have copies of my great-grandparents' passports from 1947, and at that time there was no gender/sex marker. Both of my great-grandparents were able to travel internationally without incident.