

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 02/19/2025 10:07 PMComments Received :

Limiting gender markers down to simply male or female is plainly not biologically correct. There are many people who are born with variations of the x and y chromosomes including xxx, xyy, xxy and many more. These people are known as intersex and they exist, they are biologically different. Many born with "mismatched" genitalia. To limit the gender markers down to two eliminates them which is constitutionally dubious and un-American