I do not find this addition to change the passport requirement of "sex" to "gender" to be a helpful one. As a woman I do not agree with the idea that "gender ideology" is something I must be protected from.

It serves littler purpose in protecting me from any real danger and only acts as a smokescreen to seem as though women are being helped.

I cannot imagine how limiting the box on a passport to only reflect F or M would have any real tangible effects on protecting me.

I can, however, imagine who it will hurt those who have different gender presentation and those who are intersex. A measure like this will make it much harder to be legally recognized and be able to travel. Since this change will not help anyone and can only hurt others, I must disagree with its implementation.
