

Author Full Name : Heather B

Received Date : 02/20/2025 01:01 AM

Comments Received :

There is no practical reason to deny person's the ability to change the sex marker indicated on their passport. Doing so only serves to increase confusion and increase costs for the government as time will now be wasted on constantly verifying and comparing documents that do not match as states still allow for the changing of sex markers. American citizens will suffer physical, financial, and mental harm by denying the ability to change the sex marker or use the "X" marker.