This is in violation of the ruling established from the Zzyym v. Blinken case. By changing "gender" to "sex" and limiting the options to only 2, "male" and "female", this will erase intersex people from the records who do not fit either category. This may wind up requiring everyone to get DNA testing that includes closer looks at their born sex to prove their "irregularities" in their born sex, and I believe that will be a nightmare for everyone involved. Both from a personal privacy issue, and the issue that the ones in charge of these orders will be forced to learn that sexes outside of "male" and "female" exist in larger populations than expected.

Please keep the gender part of passports as "gender", and not "sex".
