There is no such thing as "gender ideology." People simply are who they are, deserve to be treated with dignity, and have the freedom to pursue their happiness, according to the Constitution. Do not restrict freedom of movement and deny individuals the right to declare who they are on their passports, be that male, female, or "x". The "sex" category didn't even used to exist on US passports until 1977, and is a useless marker for identification anyway, given the advancements in fingerprinting, facial recognition, and other scanning tools for security purposes.
