

Author Full Name : Anonymous Anonymous

Received Date : 02/20/2025 08:47 AM

Comments Received :

The federal government does not have a vested or proven interest in applying their approved gender or sex markers on passports for individuals. The addition of sex on a passport is relatively new, and the need is circumvented by the advent of modern photography. There is no government recognized need that ties passport status to gender identification.