

Author Full Name : Sydney MillerReceived Date : 02/20/2025 10:03 AMComments Received :

Even if the federal government wants to indulge in the lunacy that trans people don't exist, you still need to reckon with the fact that biologically, intersex people do. Removing gender markers on passports that reflect the diversity of basic human biology is fundamentally wrong. It forces real, breathing human beings to select an option that simply doesn't apply to them. Speaking as a woman, you're doing nothing to protect me by preventing people from choosing the right gender marker on their passport. I'd really rather you focus on something more important.