People look so different all the time, people will transition regardless of what's on their paperwork. But, by not allowing an otherwise meaningless letter to be changed on a passport, you are actively preventing the harmless joy of being affirmed. You are going to get me hurt. You are going to get my fiance, an intersex man, hurt. You're going to get cisgender women that don't look female "enough" hurt. You are going to get so many people hurt in an effort to maintain a "biological reality" that doesn't even exist.
