Adjusting the passport to eliminate the process for updating names, gender markers, and/or other data on a US passport should not proceed and individuals should be able to submit for a name change on their passport with appropriate documentation and should be able to self-attest to the gender marker, including the option for an "X" gender marker, which is printed on their passport. This will allow for consistency between federal and state identification, protects the safety and wellbeing of citizens, and respects the valid identity of transgender and gender non-conforming individuals.
