I am concerned at the recent policy to not allow an option other than male or female on US passports. Biologically and genetically, there are more than two genders. Moreover, it benefits US national security to have passport gender matching the physical appearance of the person holding the passport. Implementation of what I can only assume are physical examinations to determine if genitals match the passport gender seems ludicrous, both from an efficiency and legal standpoint. I believe this was already adjudicated in the US District Court case Zzyym vs Blinken so this two gender policy seems destined to subject the government and therefore my tax dollars in a frivolous lawsuit that is certain to end in the overturning of this policy. Please reconsider this ill conceived policy that has no clear benefit to national security nor budget.
